

METELLI EXPANDS ITS RANGE OF BRAKE COMPONENTS: NEW REFERENCES FOR BRAKE PADS AND DISCS

27 new reference codes for brake pads and the innovative, perforated, and coated brake discs. This is Metelli's latest news in 2014.

Cologne (Italy), 12 February 2014 – The Metelli Group has started the year 2014 with an important expansion of their range of friction brake components, introducing 27 new reference codes for brake pads, significantly increasing the competitiveness of their offer. The entire range of friction brake components currently includes a total of 2,465 references- 1,521 brake pads and 944 brake discs (which includes also brake shoes for a total of 593 ref., brake drums for a total of 354 ref. and premounted kits for a total of 225 ref.).

In January 2014, Metelli introduced 27 new reference codes for brake pads, covering the latest vehicle models, like Fiat 500, Panda 2013, and Ducato 2010, Opel Adam 2013, Ford Focus, Ka 2012, the BMW models (5 Series and X3 2010). These new codes complement the 44 references introduced in 2013, increasing the Group's coverage of existing car fleet.

Of the 1,521 codes for Metelli's brake pad range, 1,174 are ECE R90-certified (compliance with the European legislation confirms the products' reliability in terms of safety and performance). In addition, 70% of Metelli's brake pad products are covered by high quality anti vibration rubber-metal-rubber shims, for a total of 1,084 references.

The Company from Cologne is also constantly developing its range of brake disc components, introducing new reference codes in response to evolving market needs. Since 2011, 253 new codes for brake discs have been introduced, for a total of 944 references, 40% of which are coated.

The special water-based paint applied ensures a lower impact on the environment than solvent-based paints, high resistance to corrosion, and has been approved by leading vehicle manufacturers. Among the innovative products introduced by Metelli in 2014 is the perforated, and painted brake disc, which will soon be available and included in their catalog.
